BOLTON WANDERERS v CHARLTON ATHLETIC

DOUGIE FREEDMAN

We come into today's game after an excellent performance against a good Huddersfield Town side. I felt that it would have been a fair result had we come away with all three points, but in this game you don't always get what you deserve.

I thought the support was absolutely tremendous. We had more than 2,000 fans who made the journey to West Yorkshire and as I've said before, we're all in this together. Together we can move forward.

We passed and moved the ball well and played some great one and two-touch football. We created numerous chances going forward and I don't think anyone that saw the game would have begrudged us all three points. The loss of Matt Mills late on affected the flow and the rhythm of our defence and that was the only time we came under real threat.

We are looking fit and are creating opportunities. I believe that as this group of players continues to adapt to my training methods we will become a more organised side. The hard work that is being put in by both the staff and players is beginning to show. We are communicating our ideas and how we want to play and to be fair to the players, they are responding very well.

I believe that the way we have played for the last four games has been worthy of more points. Going forward, we need to maintain that belief both on and off the pitch. If we do that we will begin to pick up points and climb the table.

We have been able to extend Jacob Butterfield's loan period, which is great news. I think that we have seen glimpses of what he is capable of and there is no doubt that he'll continue to get better.

This afternoon I'd like to welcome Chris Powell and his Charlton side as well as their staff and supporters to the Reebok along with our match sponsors J Mallinson Ormskirk.

We're also delighted to be able to support Stuart Holden as he hosts Holden's Gifts of Hope today, collecting food and clothing that is to be distributed to Bolton charities to assist those less fortunate at this time of year.

On behalf of everyone at the club, I would like to thank you for showing your support this afternoon and wish you all a happy Christmas.

KEVIN DAVIES

Looking back to last weekend, for me, it was two points dropped. We know that when we're winning games with five minutes to go we've got to be seeing it out. Everybody felt disappointed at full time – it's not a feeling we want to get used to. We have to change our mentality and work hard as a side. When we take the lead we must make sure we do everything we can to go on and secure the three points.

Once again I thought the fans were great. They've got right behind the side as they always have done. We're very grateful to them for their support and hopefully that will continue, because we feel we're not too far away from pushing on and going on a good run. Hopefully by the New Year we'll be higher up the table – we need to start catching up. Whilst we were disappointed, as always, we'll look at the positives. Not only did we come from a goal down at Huddersfield to take the lead, but we played some very good football.

A lot of it is just getting that winning mentality and doing the right things when you're in winning positions. As a side we've got enough experience to be getting those things right, so we know ourselves that we must improve.

It's very frustrating. If we'd held on to even half of the points that have been dropped from winning positions we'd probably be in the top six. It's happened quite a lot this season and as I say, it's something we need to improve on.

We've still not really had that winning streak. We'd been on a good run before losing at home to Ipswich, but we need to try to string together a run where we're winning two, three, four games in a row. That will fill the place with confidence and get us to where we want to be.

This afternoon we face Charlton. As always, we know it's going to be a tough game. We're well prepared; we know about their strengths and we've watched the videos of them, particularly from set pieces. They've done pretty well after getting promoted last season, but we have to make sure we're concentrating on our own game.

Even at this time of year, with Christmas approaching, it's difficult not to concentrate on football. A lot of our players have got families and children, so you try and leave the wives and girlfriends to do all the shopping – you don't want to be trailing round doing that!

It is a time for family and friends, but it's also a time for lots of football. I think everyone involved with our sport looks forward to the Boxing Day fixtures.

As players we have to make sure that we're preparing in the right way. More often than not that means missing out on what your family and friends are eating and drinking on Christmas day, but that's just part and parcel of the game. I'm sure a lot of the lads will try and sneak some turkey in with their pasta!

Enjoy the game and on behalf of all the lads, have a great Christmas.

FAB CONTINUES HEARTS & GOALS CAMPAIGN

Fabrice Muamba was promoting the Heart & Goals Pulse Check at the Reebok on 1 December, as the initiative continued its campaign to raise awareness about sudden cardiac arrest.

Before Bolton's Championship fixture with Ipswich, the former Wanderers midfielder encouraged fans to learn how to check their pulse as a good first point for checking health and wellbeing.

Muamba, accompanied by members from North West Ambulance Service and the Bolton Wanderers Community Trust, took part in pulse check sessions at the Reebok.

"Simple pulse checks can save lives," said Trudie Lobban MBE, CEO of Arrhythmia Alliance. "Everyone should check their pulse frequently to ensure that it is regular, not too fast and not too slow.

"Many potentially fatal heart rhythm disorders can be detected through an abnormal pulse that anyone can check quickly, easily, for free, at any time."

Club Chaplain Mason added: "Fabrice is passionate about getting behind this campaign and raising awareness around the issues of sudden cardiac arrest. Hopefully something as straight forward as a pulse check could just make the difference when it counts."

There are many ways you can support Heart & Goals and your fundraising efforts will go a long way to install hundreds of AEDs across the UK.

SUPPORT JACK STANLEY FOUNDATION

The Support Jack Stanley Foundation was set-up in memory of Wanderers fan Jack Stanley who sadly passed away on Easter Sunday, 2012.

Having joined the army in 2003, Jack served with the Queen's Royal Hussars and was deployed to Afghanistan in 2011. Whilst serving abroad, Jack was hit by an IED and was transported to Queen Elizabeth Hospital Birmingham, but he sadly succumbed to his injuries.

As well as a keen sportsman, Jack was a passionate fundraiser, and in 2003 alongside his fellow soldiers he raised £10,300 for Yorkshire Air Ambulance, who air lifted Jack from a hillside after a bad fall.

His family are very keen to keep his approach to life very much alive in a way to help others – and so the Support Jack Stanley Foundation was launched.

For further information on how to support the Jack Stanley Foundation, please visit the Support Jack Stanley Foundation Facebook page. The family would like to thank Bolton Wanderers and club chaplain Phil Mason who have showed their continued support to the family through the past year.

BWFCISS GRAND SKILLS FINAL

Over 120 players from around the world attended the Bolton Wanderers International Soccer School's fifth annual Grand Skills Final at Lostock.

Players from countries like Colombia, USA, India and Nigeria were invited to take part in the football frenzy week hosted by BWFCISS manager Dave Bailey, and on their arrival at the training ground the players were put through their paces over the next few days by the ISS coaching team.

Bailey said: "This is our biggest and best grand skills final yet and we have high hopes from these players as they set a great benchmark when we were out in their countries.

"The strength of the ISS and its grand skills final always amazes us, the quality of player is high and this showed throughout the week in training and in the shield game."

The Grand Skills Final 2012 overall winner was 17-year-old Colombian Byron Barrero who has been invited back to BWFC for two weeks to train with the club's international programme.

NOVEMBER'S 188BET PLAYER OF THE MONTH

Kevin Davies has won the 188BET Player of the Month award for November.

The forward started four of Wanderers' six games throughout the course of the month, scoring two goals against Barnsley and Blackburn.

Davies won 43 percent of the fans' votes in an online poll ahead of Eagles, who gained 24 percent, and Chung- Yong Lee, who claimed 16 percent of the vote.

BUTTERFIELD LOAN EXTENDED

Jacob Butterfield's loan deal at the club has been extended through to 5 January, 2013.

The 22-year-old has so far featured in four games for Wanderers since signing from Norwich City last month.

ADAM BOGDAN CONTRACT EXTENSION

Adam Bogdan has signed a contract extension with the club and the goalkeeper's deal is now set to run until the summer of 2015.

The 25-year-old stopper has been at the club since the summer of 2007, when he signed from Hungarian side Vasas SC.

"I'm delighted with the extension," the Hungarian international explained. "I see my future here and I want to get back to the Premier League as quickly as possible and I see this as a big step."

STAYING CLOSE TO HIS ROOTS

Growing up in a small town on the outskirts of Paris, David Ngog, with a little help from his father, would quickly rise out of the ground as one of France's most promising young stars, but despite spending the past four years living across the channel in England, the Bolton number nine remains close to his roots.

Ngog, a life-long Paris Saint-Germain fan, would first kick a ball at the age of six when he soon found his eye for goal and his love for the sport. After signing for Liverpool in 2008, the talented Frenchman quickly settled into life in England, and, as he tells the official matchday programme, he is now enjoying life in the North West - but he still remains very much close to home.

David, you are now in your second season with Wanderers, how are you enjoying your time at Bolton so far?

I am really enjoying my time here. I remember when I joined I wanted to play for a good, successful club in England and at the time I thought I had some good games at Liverpool but I couldn't play regularly. So I felt it was a good time for me to move on to Bolton. It was nice to be wanted and I was delighted to move. I am now really happy and proud to be part of this team.

We have had a slow start this season, but you never know in football. We know that we still have the possibility to get promoted back to the Premier League and we have the confidence that we can do it - now we just have to show it on the pitch.

Many fans like to know what players enjoy doing when they aren't at the training ground, what do you like to do in your free time?

I like to watch movies, listen to music, sometimes I play other sports like tennis and being with my friends. When I was young I did some training with an athletics team because they wanted me to be an athlete, but I felt running without a ball was a bit boring so I came back to play football. I also like to spend as much time as I can back in France - my parents' house is still there so when I have a chance I go.

Do you still meet up with some of your old friend that you had previously played with in France?

I try and stay in contact with a lot of the players I used to play with at Paris Saint-Germain. I played alongside Mamadou Sakho, who plays for France now, and Younousse Sankharé who I used to play with since I was 11 or 12 years old and I still speak to him now. I try to meet up with them when I can but it is difficult with these people playing too, but if we have a chance we will try and meet up for food.

Gabriel Obertan is another player I stay in touch with especially since he is now playing in England too, but he was different as he didn't go to the same academy as I did.

So David, how did you first get involved in football in France? Was there anyone in your family who had previously played professionally?

I grew up in a small town called Franconville just outside Paris and this is where I went to school and started to play football when I was six-years-old. I have friends and family who still live there. I played for my home town team, Franconville, where I always played as a striker, and I have been a forward ever since. I have always wanted to play up front as I always like to score goals and that is what I want to do.

My dad was a huge football fan, I had old tapes from the 1998 World Cup which I used to watch at home. It was my dad who took me to my first football matches and I loved it.

He never played football professionally, but I am cousins with Jean-Alain Bounsong who is a French international and currently plays for Panathinaikos, but I didn't see much of him when I was young.

I first got spotted in a tournament in Paris where Paris Saint-Germain scouts were looking everywhere. I think I was 11 when I was told that they wanted me to sign for them and go to the academy, so that's when I left to come to Paris.

Was it difficult for you to move away from your home and your family to go and live in Paris?

My life changed a lot to be honest - I was 12-years-old and it was a new environment for me and you could only go home and see your family at weekends.

Monday to Friday we basically went to a normal school. At the end of the day we trained, then we would have an evening meal together and then we would sleep.

You had to make sure you were good both on the field and at school because you had to pay attention in school as you were still young and you didn't know if you are going to succeed or not.

On Saturday we would have the game and then on Sunday night I would go home. It was a good time when I think about; it spending a lot of time with lots of good friends, and some are now professionals as well.

Did you grow up as a Paris Saint-Germain fan?

Yes, when I was younger I would always wear a Paris Saint-Germain t-shirt as it was the biggest club around. So it was a really good feeling to play for this team and to learn everything there from the club I grew up supporting.

I didn't really grow up admiring many PSG strikers; Ronaldinho was fantastic but it was before he went big and when I was young we used to go to the stadium and seeing him was impressive.

How did you feel when you first signed a professional contract with your childhood club?

When I signed my first contract I was really happy. When you come to a dressing room with all these professional players it is a good feeling. I was 16 when I signed my first professional contract and when I was 17 and I played 45 or 50 games for PSG.

I scored two goals in a cup match, and that was my first double for the club. When you are young and play for your favourite team it is a good feeling to score.

Laurent Fournier was a big influence on me but I think he got sacked just as I was signing my professional contract. I think I had four managers during my time there; PSG was a big club that changed a lot. I have always had good coaches that had trust in me and helped me to improve.

Then you made the move and signed for Premier League giants Liverpool. Was it difficult to make the transition to english football?

It was not easy. I was 19 and I was moving to a new country with a new language. It was a big club and it wasn't easy to get into the side. But I think the club really helped me find my way and I was grateful to the coach and to the players who helped make this easy.

I think it was a good time for me and it was a good chance for me to go to England. When the coach said that he wanted me to sign for Liverpool he said that I should take the chance and I did.

I still look out for their results and I still follow them now; I really enjoyed my time at Liverpool. When you play at Anfield the feeling is fantastic, the crowd are always pushing you and it is a really special place.

I also worked with Sammy Lee when I was at Liverpool when I first signed and he is a good coach. He really works hard with players and I think he has made every player better.

CHILDHOOD FRIENDS... DAVID NGOG

The Bolton striker graduated from the PSG academy in 2006, but despite spending the last four years in England, he has remained in touch with a few famous childhood friends.

Gabriel OBERTAN

Obertan spent a year at the PSG academy before moving to fellow French side Bordeaux in 2006. After their brief encounter, Ngog has remained close friends with the Newcastle winger and the pair were reunited on the field when they both appeared for the French Under-21 team.

Mamadou SAKHO

Sakho is another French star that Ngog grew up with at the PSG academy, and the central defender is still playing for his childhood club, even captaining the side this season. The 22-year-old has advanced through the ranks and has now made ten appearances for the French national side.

Younousse SANKHARÉ

Ngog has been friends with the Dijon midfielder for over 10 years after the pair met and played together while at the PSG academy. Sankharé also linked up with the Bolton man while on France Under-21 duty and the two remain in constant contact.

TOP TENS Getting To Know Lennie Lawrence

WORDS: MARK HEYS

Dougie Freedman's first task after taking over as Bolton Wanderers manager was to assemble a tried and trusted backroom team.

In Lennie Lawrence, Wanderers have an assistant who, as manager, has taken charge of over 1,000 games building up a vast amount of knowledge and experience. Brighton-born Lawrence, aged 65, spent almost a decade at the helm of this afternoon's opponents Charlton Athletic.

In this edition of 'Top Tens', we take a look at Lawrence's career in more detail.

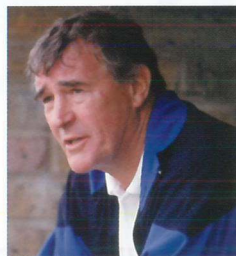

EARLY DAYS

Lawrence was born in Brighton but moved to Croydon at an early age, where his school mates included current England manager Roy Hodgson (right), former India and China coach Bob Houghton and Crystal Palace legend Steve Kember. Lawrence progressed to play non-league football for Croydon, Carshalton Athletic and Sutton United.

HOLDING THE FORT

When Kelly left Home Park, Lawrence held the fort for five games. He took charge of the first of his 1,000-plus game as a manager, as Plymouth Argyle earned a share of the points in a draw at Gillingham in February 1978. His Plymouth team at the time contained future Bolton boss Gary Megson. He would remain at Argyle after the Devonshire club appointed Malcolm Allison (right) as their full-time boss. Allison would move onto Manchester City, with Lawrence then heading to Lincoln City.

STARTING OUT PRO

After moving on to initially serve as a PE teacher, Lawrence maintained an interest in coaching at former club Carshalton Athletic. His break came when Mike Kelly, a contact he had made on a coaching course, was appointed as the new manager of Plymouth Argyle, with Lawrence assuming the position of reserve team coach.

THE VALLEY AND BEYOND

After three-and-a-half years at Lincoln City coaching the likes of Dave Felgate and Tony Cunningham, who would later go onto represent Wanderers, Lawrence (right) responded to an advert in the national press to become Charlton Athletic's new reserve team coach. Within a matter of months he took over first team duties from Ken Craggs for what was to turn out to be his first full-time managerial appointment.

EARLY ENCOUNTERS WITH WANDERERS

Just a matter of games into his tenure as Charlton boss, Lawrence would come up against a Bolton side led by John McGovern (left) at Burnden Park. Wanderers ran out comprehensive 4-1 winners thanks to goals from Neil Whatmore, Jeff Chandler and Wayne Foster. The Addicks exacted their revenge later that season when on the final day of the 1982/83 campaign, and with both sides needing a win to stay in the division, a late salvo from Derek Hales saw Charlton stay up and the Trotters relegated.

CHARLTON'S FINANCIAL PROBLEMS

Lawrence got Charlton promoted to the top flight in 1986, but not after a whole host of financial problems. The London club were forced out of their home ground The Valley and would come close to going out of business. However, against all odds Lawrence's side would finish second on 77 points, seven adrift of champions Norwich City.

MOVING ON TO TEESSIDE

After four years defying the odds in the top flight, Charlton went down and by 1991, with the Addicks on the brink of returning to The Valley, Lawrence decided to uproot to join Middlesbrough. At Boro, Lawrence achieved promotion to the newly-formed Premier League in 1992, but the sales of star players including Tony Mowbray (right) and ex-Bolton loanee Stuart Ripley and Alan Kernaghan hampered his progress amongst the elite.

AROUND THE MERRY-GO-ROUND

A 16-month spell in charge at Bradford City in 1994 was then followed up with a five-year stint at Luton Town. Lawrence reluctantly had to sell many good young players for big fees including goalkeeper Kelvin Davis (right) and defender Matthew Upson.

RESURRECTING CARDIFF

Keeping Grimsby Town in Division One became Lawrence's first job of the new Millennium, the second was to get Cardiff City promoted from League One in 2003. His side beat Queens Park Rangers in the play-off final at the Millennium Stadium. It was the first time in twenty years that the Welsh side had been promoted to the second tier of English football and they have remained in that division ever since.

SINCE LEAVING WALES

Since leaving Cardiff in 2005, Lawrence was recruited by Bristol Rovers and Hereford United as a director of football. When at Rovers, Lawrence oversaw another promotion and then in 2011 he began working with Dougie Freedman at Crystal Palace as an assistant manager. When Freedman left Palace for Bolton in October 2012, Lawrence was caretaker manager of the Eagles for two games away at Barnsley and Leicester City, before later making the move to the Reebok.

Attendance: 4,544

WANDERERS: FARNWORTH, BORROWS, PHILLIPS, JOYCE, CAME, MCELHINNEY, DEAKIN, CHANDLER, FOSTER, CALDWELL, BELL

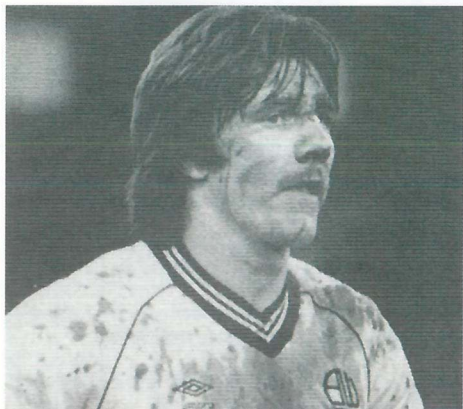

Wanderers, under the management of John McGovern, endured an inconsistent start to the 1984/85 season. The Whites secured several home victories at Burnden Park, but unfortunately lost their first nine away league matches.

The Trotters were just outside of the relegation zone due to their impressive home form - with George O'Ghani, Jeff Chandler and Tony Caldwell all hitting the net regularly. The visit of Millwall was going to be a stern test for McGovern's men as the South Londoners, under George Graham, were sitting in third place.

During the week, Millwall had splashed out £55,000 for John Fashanu - this was to partner the division's top scorer Steve Lovell.

The first half saw Gerry McElhinney and Fashanu go head-to-head, literally, with Big Gerry spurring blood in the cause for his team and supporters - Irishman McElhinney's previous exploits included boxing for Ulster and Gaelic football and he was as tough as they come.

Tony Caldwell, a £2,000 signing from Horwich RMI, was back in the fold after injury had kept him out of action since mid-October, but he quickly found his scoring touch, netting two second-half goals. The 2-1 win proved that on their day, Bolton were a match for anyone.

However, McGovern paid the price as he was relieved of his duties when the home form dipped over Christmas and the New Year. Coach Charlie Wright took over after five consecutive victories during his caretaker role. However, the form soon dried up and the Whites were again battling against relegation. Though Wanderers did survive by an eight-point cushion due to their superb home form.

WANDERERS 2 - 1 PORTSMOUTH

Bolton Wanderers under-18s progressed to the fourth round of the FA Youth Cup after battling to well-deserved victory over Portsmouth at the Reebok Stadium on Monday night.

A late goal from Georg Iliev secured the win for the Whites after Robert Holding's early strike was cancelled out by Portsmouth defender Adam Webster.

Wanderers began the game with plenty of attacking intent and this paid dividends after just five minutes when they broke the deadlock.

Tom Walker curled a dangerous free-kick towards goal that goalkeeper Connor O'Hara failed to control, before Holding immediately reacted and fired in the opener from close range.

The ferocious pace of the game didn't subside as the visitors fought back to level matters through a free-kick of their own in the 12th minute.

Bradley Tarbuck whipped the set-piece towards the far post before seeing it met by the towering defender Webster who nodded into the far corner.

Following the equaliser, there were few clear chances for either side until a flurry of attempts arrived around the half-hour mark.

The first of which fell to Bolton after Walker's cross unexpectedly found its way through the legs of several Pompey defenders and to the feet of Luke Woodland on the edge of the area. Under pressure, the youngster dragged a rushed effort inches wide.

The intense battle for the third goal of the game continued as Wanderers came agonisingly close to regaining the lead.

Elliot Newby laid the ball across to Iliev who cut inside from the right flank and drilled a rasping drive that flashed just wide of the post.

The early stages of the second half failed to emulate the velocity of the first. Just after the hour mark Niall Maher headed a corner towards goal that was half-cleared and fell to Woodland 14 yards from goal, but the midfielder could only muster a scuffed shot straight into the hands of O'Hara.

20 minutes from time, Dylan Wolstenholme nearly put the home side ahead in impressive fashion. The youngster went on a mazy solo run before hitting a powerful shot that rose just above the crossbar.

With ten minutes remaining, Wanderers finally got the breakthrough that they deserved.

Iliev showed his predatory instincts as he dashed to meet a cross from the right flank, using the pace of the pass to flick the ball over O'Hara and into the far corner of the net from an acute angle.

Bolton were unlucky not to compound Pompey's misery in the dying moments of the game through Woodland.

As he ran towards goal, Portsmouth defenders backed off allowing him space to hit a fierce attempt that rocketed painfully close to the bottom corner.

That was the last meaningful action of the match before the referee called time on an emphatic performance from the under-18s.

JAN-OLE SIEVERS

GERMAN-BORN KEEPER
SETTLING INTO THE ENGLISH
GAME WORDS: EMMA NORRIS

Despite making the move to England from Germany aged just 16, Wanderers' goalkeeper Jan-Ole Sievers is adamant that he has no regrets over his decision.

An ever-present for the club's under-18s during their impressive league campaign, the youngster spent the majority of his childhood playing for his hometown club Karlsruhe SC.

Despite making a name for himself between the sticks, the scholar originally started out as a left sided midfielder before making the transition in goal at the age of seven – a change that came about purely by chance.

"I only ended up in goal as I always loved diving in the mud, so it was just the perfect position for me to play," he confessed.

Sievers quickly went from strength-to-strength under the guidance of goalkeeping coach Andre Schmidt before being invited on a week-long trial with Bolton last year.

"My dad knew Dean Crombie at the academy and he invited me over, but during my time here I didn't get to play a game to show them what I could do, so I was told to come back again," the 17-year-old explained.

"I eventually got to play and obviously did well as Bolton then asked my club if they could sign me - it took about two months to get everything sorted but it has been worth it."

Given his tender years, Sievers admitted that his transfer to England was one which took its toll on him, particularly on a personal level.

"It was really difficult leaving my friends and my parents behind – my first week here was horrible as I didn't know anyone or really understand the language.

"It was a hard decision, but I think the experience that I've got from coming here has helped me to develop into a better player."

Once settled into the English way of life, the keeper revealed that he was shocked at the different approach to the game, but it is a factor that he believes will help to shape him as a professional.

"It is very strange over here in terms of the way we play - in Germany we had the ball on the floor a lot more, but in England there are a lot more long balls.

"There's a bigger focus on fitness here too. At Karlsruhe we didn't do any gym work, but here we do it three times a week – it is hard work but definitely worth it."

One of a number of the club's youngsters who has recently trained with the first team, Sievers is convinced that the opportunity to learn from the senior players will stand him in good stead in his quest for his own professional contract.

"Being able to work with Adam Bogdan has been fantastic – he's always giving me tips and advice," he added.

"I did get a bit nervous at first as it's not exactly something that you do every day, but it has been brilliant and getting that kind of experience can only help and inspire me to push on this season."

West Brom 2 – 1 Wanderers

Wanderers' under-21s suffered a narrow defeat to West Bromwich Albion at the Baggies' training ground on Monday afternoon.

First team members Andy Lonergan, Joe Riley and Marvin Sordell all played 90 minutes for John Henry's side during their 2-1 league defeat.

The Trotters took the lead after 16 minutes when Joe McKee's cross-cum-shot was fumbled and Blakeman was on hand to fire home from six yards, but Adil Nabi would level the scores for the home side soon after, curling the ball into the top-right hand corner from 25 yards.

And a Ben Hampson own goal would put the Baggies in front ten minutes later to end an eventful first half.

The Trotters continued to create chances in the second period, with left-back Andy Kellett repeatedly breaking forward down the left, but the Whites had to settle for defeat in the Midlands.

West Brom: Lewis; C Jones, Daniels, Dawson, Garmston; O'Neil, Birch; Roofe; Nabi, Wedderburn (A Jones 81), Sawyers. [Subs not used: Palmer, Barrow, Pace, Smart]

Wanderers: Lonergan; Riley, Kellett, McQuade, Hampson, Blakeman, Lester, Kelly (Woodland 80), Sordell (Odelusi 90), McKee (Iliev 71), Sampson. [Subs not used: Threlkeld, Fielding]

Wanderers 1 – 3 Everton

Wanderers' development squad suffered defeat against Everton in their final league fixture before the Christmas break.

Marvin Sordell's first-half strike wasn't enough for the Trotters as goals from Apostolos Vellios, Matthew Kennedy and Ross Barkley secured all three points for the visitors.

Wanderers found themselves behind after just 11 minutes. A pass played from deep by Ibou Touray found Vellios who controlled the ball well before slotting past Rob Lainton to open the scoring.

But on the stroke of half time, Bolton were back on level terms from the penalty spot. Odelusi raced in behind the Everton backline before being brought down in the area by Shane Duffy, and Sordell would make no mistake from 12 yards.

Unfortunately for the Trotters, Everton regained the lead 11 minutes after the restart as Vellios' through ball found Kennedy who prodded past Lainton to hand Everton the lead.

Bolton's admirable efforts to steal a draw were in vain as Everton condemned the home side in the dying moments of the game as Barkley fired a powerful effort into the bottom corner.

Wanderers will now be competing in the second tier of the Qualification Group after the festive break when the entire league structure is split into three groups.

Wanderers: Lainton, Riley, Threlkeld, McQuade, Hampson, Blakeman, Lester (Woodland 77), Kelly, Sordell, Odelusi (Iliev, 77), Sampson (Unused subs: Kellett, Fielding, McKee)

Everton: Mucha, Browning, Touray, Lundstram, Duffy, Hammar, Kennedy, Barkley, Vellios, Gueye, Hope (Unused subs: Taudul, Forrester, Green, Jones, Long)

INTRODUCING... CHARLTON ATHLETIC

Founded: 1905

Nickname: The Addicks

Stadium: The Valley (Capacity – 27,111)

Manager: Chris Powell

Record Signing: Jason Euell (£4.75m from Wimbledon in 2001)

HONOURS:

Football League Second Division (Tier Two):

Champions: 2000, Runners-up: 1936 & 1986,
Play-off winners: 1987 & 1998

Football League Third Division (Tier Three):

Champions: 2012, Promoted: 1975 & 1981

FA Cup:

Winners: 1947

Football League First Division (Tier One):

Runners-up: 1937

OPPOSITION SUMMARY

Chris Powell's side have enjoyed a prosperous start to life back in the Championship after securing victories over the likes of Cardiff City, Leicester City and Blackpool this season.

The Addicks were crowned League One champions last season with a phenomenal haul of 101 points from their 46 league matches.

The London-based side took five points from their opening three league games this season, but a run of only one win in seven games saw them slide down the Championship table.

Powell's men have been on a better run of late, securing three successive wins in November, one of which was a 5-4 thriller with Cardiff City at The Valley.

That epic encounter was followed by away wins against Bristol City and Burnley as Charlton propelled themselves clear of the relegation zone.

Visiting View

Paul Evans, a member of the Charlton Life forum, has been delighted with the Addicks' start to the season - and he is now eyeing a possible top-ten finish.

He said: "We took a while to acclimatise and the Palace and Middlesbrough defeats were a real low, but Powell has now got the team looking a lot tighter and we now actually look like we belong in the Championship.

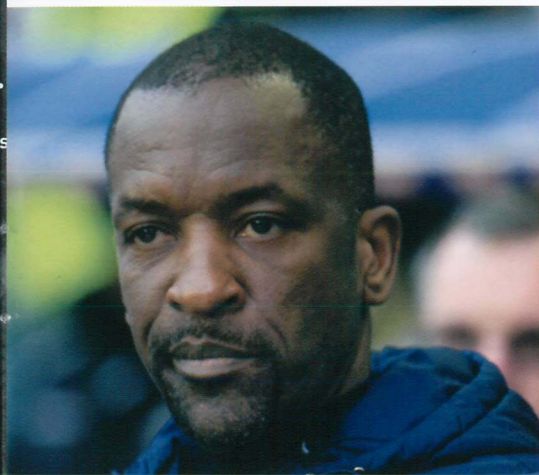

"A few weeks ago, everyone was talking about staying up, but we are now 11 points clear of the bottom three so expectations have changed a little bit. I think we can comfortably finish in mid table and maybe even creep into the top ten.

"Michael Morrison and Chris Solly have made the step up with ease and, as much as it pains me to say it, both are destined for the Premier League in the not too distant future. Ricardo Fuller has also shown flashes of brilliance this season.

"We're on a great away run at the moment and I can see us nicking it 1-0 with Danny Haynes (below) keeping up his good run and scoring the winner."

Position: Defender

21-year-old defender Chris Solly is a graduate from the club's youth academy and is already closing in on 100 appearances for the Addicks. He scored his first goal of the season in their 2-0 away win at Blackpool in October and looks set to become a key component in Charlton's defence under Chris Powell.

DALE STEPHENS

Nationality: English

Date of Birth: 12/12/1989

Position: Midfielder

Central midfielder Dale Stephens signed a three-year deal with Charlton in the summer after joining from Oldham Athletic in July. Born in Bolton, Stephens has had spells with Bury, Hyde, Droylsden, Rochdale and Southampton before moving to the capital from the North West.

BRADLEY PRITCHARD

Nationality: Zimbabwean

Date of Birth: 19/12/1985

Position: Midfielder

Zimbabwean midfielder Bradley Pritchard joined the Addicks from non-league side Hayes and Yeading in 2011 and has made a big impression on the Charlton faithful. Pritchard also played for Nuneaton Borough and Tamworth, winning the Conference North title with the latter in the 2008/09 season.

SALIM KERKAR

Nationality: French

Date of Birth: 04/08/1987

Position: Midfielder

French midfielder Salim Kerkar completed his switch from Scottish giants Rangers in August 2012 after initially joining Charlton on trial in July. Kerkar had spells in France with Gueugnon and Calais before moving to Scotland to join Rangers. He scored his first goal against Arbroath in the Scottish Cup, and he now looks set to have a similar impact with the Addicks.

YANN KERMORGANT

Nationality: French

Date of Birth: 08/11/1981

Position: Striker

French striker Yann Kermorgant was a key figure for Charlton in their 2011/12 season as his 12 goals helped them secure the League One title and gain promotion back into the Championship. Kermorgant has scored against Derby County and Leicester City in the current campaign and is a huge favourite of the Charlton Athletic fans.

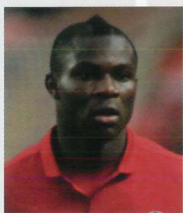

RICARDO FULLER

Nationality: Jamaican

Date of Birth: 31/10/1979

Position: Striker

Jamaican international Ricardo Fuller joined Charlton in August 2012 on a one-year contract from Stoke City and has scored against Ipswich Town and Watford this season. Fuller scored 49 times in his six seasons at the Britannia Stadium before opting to move south to join Chris Powell at The Valley for the 2012/13 season.

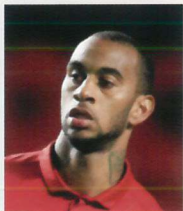

EMMANUEL FRIMPONG

Nationality: English

Date of Birth: 10/01/1992

Position: Midfielder

Arsenal youngster Emmanuel Frimpong joined Charlton on loan from the Gunners in November after recovering from an anterior cruciate ligament injury he sustained while on loan at Wolves last season. He featured in Arsenal's extraordinary League Cup win at Reading earlier in the season and his experience under Arsene Wenger could make him a key asset to Chris Powell.

DANNY HAYNES

Nationality: English

Date of Birth: 19/01/1988

Position: Striker

Peckham-born striker Danny Haynes returned to Charlton in 2012 after playing for the club as a youngster. Haynes graduated through Ipswich Town's academy before having spells at Bristol City, Millwall and Barnsley and he is making a mark this season after scoring a goal in each of the wins against Cardiff, Burnley and Bristol City.

THE GROUNDS

KC STADIUM

Hull City currently share their 25,000 capacity stadium with Rugby League side Hull FC. Wanderers secured victory on their first ever visit to the KC, claiming a 2-1 win in their 2008 Premier League clash. Matt Taylor's second-half strike ensured a second win in six days for Gary Megson's side. In total, the Trotters have won six away games in Hull and drawn ten.

KEEPMOAT STADIUM

Wanderers have visited Doncaster Rovers' new home twice since its completion in 2007. Megson's side secured a comfortable 5-0 victory at the Keepmoat in 2008, as Johan Elmander, Fabrice Muamba, Joey O'Brien and Kevin Davies all found the net. The Whites have happy memories of their last competitive away trip to Doncaster, as the Premier League side secured their place in the FA Cup fourth round as goals from Kevin Davies, Idan Tal and a brace from Andranik Teymourian sealed a 4-0 win.

KASSAM STADIUM

The 12,500 capacity Kassam Stadium has been the home for both Oxford United and London Welsh Rugby Club since its completion in 2001. Wanderers are yet to visit the League Two ground, but the Whites are undefeated in their last three visits to Oxford, securing two draws and a victory on their last visit in 1993 under manager Bruce Rioch. Bolton under-18s were 2-1 winners at the Kassam in a third round FA Youth Cup tie last season, with Georg Iliev scoring the winner.

K IS ALSO FOR...

KEEPER

Former Bolton stopper Jussi Jaaskelainen holds the record for the longest serving foreign Premier League player after making over 470 appearances for the Whites in a 15-year spell at the Reebok.

KOREA REPUBLIC

Chung-Yong Lee, aged 24, has already won 42 caps for South Korea, and made 94 appearances for Bolton. The winger has scored five international goals in total, including two at the 2010 World Cup against Argentina and Uruguay.

THE PLAYERS

PRZEMYSLAW KAZIMIERCZAK

The Polish keeper has one of the longest names in Wanderers' history, however the 24-year-old, who joined the academy in 2004, failed to make a senior appearance for the club. During his four-year spell at the Reebok he enjoyed loan spells at Accrington Stanley and Wycombe Wanderers, before leaving in 2008 to join Darlington.

IVAN KLASNIC

The Croatian international made 94 appearances for Wanderers during his three-year spell, making his debut in 2009 during Bolton's 3-2 win over Portsmouth - providing the assist for Gary Cahill's winning goal. His first goal for the club came in the Whites' victory over Everton later that year, and he would go on to score 24 goals for the Trotters. The pacey striker scored nine goals last season, before leaving the club in the summer.

TONY KELLY

The midfielder made over 100 appearances for the Trotters during his three-year spell with the club in the early 1990s. Kelly would be a constant feature in Phil Neal and then Bruce Rioch's midfield and he was named in the 1992 PFA Team of the Year, before helping the Wanderers secure promotion out of the old Second Division in 1993. Kelly is still involved with the club today as a coach for Bolton's successful under-18 side.

KNOCKOUT COMPETITION

English football's most famous knockout competition, the FA Cup, has been won four times by the Trotters in 1923, 1926, 1929 and most recently in 1958 when two Nat Lofthouse goals saw them overcome Manchester United in front of 100,000 people at Wembley Stadium.

KIT

Wanderers' first ever kit in 1874 was in fact not white, but red with black bottoms, and the kit soon changed colour again in 1884 when Bolton adopted a blue shirt. But the home kit has remained white since 1900, aside from one game in the 2002/03 season against Fulham when the club adopted red, blue and white stripes for their 2002 anniversary kit.
